Demand Saner Fishing Laws

Grocery Store Politicians Responsible for Present Herring Legislation, Says E. M. Lawrence.—Absurdity of the Extinction Idea.—Ex-Representative Bowley Advocates a Conference of Fishermen.

I have read with interest the articles in recent editions of the Waldo County Herald and Bangor News upon the destruction of herring by seiners. The writers of these articles are evidently not fishermen, and like so many of our Maine protectionists are writing upon a subject about which they know absolutely nothing. Articles like these directed against the practice of seining herring have appeared recently in the above mentioned papers, and have circulated throughout the state. While they are in no way founded upon facts, nevertheless being written by men of excitable and easily influenced minds, they give an erroneous impression to the people at large, and are doing much to hurt an industry upon which the people of practically all Maine shore towns are materially interested.

It is a well known fact and one seldom thought of, that the sea and shore fisheries of the Legislature has taken great pains to establish commission to study means for bettering conditions. Now leaving aside the question of enforcement of laws, I do not know a man in this state today who can tell me where the herring spawn, what percent of the spawn live, what we should do to protect the herring, and what means we should employ to insure their non-extinction. If there is such a man, and he will stand up and tell me that it is injurious to the fishing industry to seine herring, and show me facts to prove his statements, I will believe that I am sane in saying that herring have all been drawn up and pushed through the Legislature by the grocery store politicians, and the seining laws of which about every town on the coast has a different one have been promulgated and agitated by some such men as the writer of the articles which I have before mentioned; a man who seeing John Jones from Jonesport seining herring near his shore says to himself "That Jones has made $500 this year seining herring behind my house; now that must be stopped."

Herring have been seined in Scotland, Norway and Japan for 500 years, in fact, that is the only way they are caught. The Japanese have seines five miles long, the majority of which are owned by municipalities and are rented to the fishermen. The Japanese surround a body of herring and hold them weeks at a time, or until such time as they are properly prepared to be taken from the water and used as an article of food. Catching herring is the only means of existence which many of these people have, and it is not probable that they would jeopardize such an industry by catching herring through destructive methods. According to various writers, the Japanese catch of herring compared to the United States catch last year estimated as the fish are taken from the water, is Japan, $5,000,000, United States, $500,000. The Japanese have Holland with only 12,000 square miles of territory, compared with the State of Maine, which has 29,000 square miles, has on an average, 20,000 men engaged annually catching herring, and I believe that I am safe in saying that you cannot find on our Maine coast, 500 men engaged in herring fishing while our coast line is hundreds of miles greater than the above country.

Prof. Smith of the United States Fish Commission, after recent investigation of the herring fisheries of the world, says that by no possible means could man destroy five per cent of the herring that are killed each year in the ocean. Herring are the great food fish of the sea, they are preyed upon by almost every animal and fish that swims, as well as all sea birds, and in turn they are the most prolific, each herring spawning an average of 20,000 annually. One old haddock on the spawning beds will destroy more herring in a day than any of our Maine seiners have caught in a week. I have seen herring piled up on the shores of Passamaquoddy Bay two feet deep, dead and rotting, driven there by a school of squid. The city of St. John, N. B., had a crowd of men working with road machines last fall destroying rows of herring, which had been driven ashore by dogfish and threatened to drive the inhabitants inland by their stench. I have seen a school of silver hake this year go into a weir on the Mussel Ridge Islands and destroy in three days a school of herring which was estimated at 200 hogheads.

Regarding the statement that the herring have left the eastern coast, the man who makes such a statement is ignorant of existing conditions. Three generations of my family have been engaged in catching herring exclusively, and have made it a life work. I have heard my grandfather say there have been years upon years when it has been impossible by any means known to catch herring enough to furnish bait for hand fishing, and the next year they would return as plentiful as ever. Even during my business experience, I can recall a number of years when the herring were even less plentiful than they are this, the pack of sardines falling far below the pack of this year. I venture to say that a day's cruise outside the harbors of Maine, will show the water to be abundantly supplied with herring. As a matter of fact, the captain of the Steamship Gov. Cobb, called my attention this summer to a school of herring at least 20 miles long, which he had sailed through on every trip for at least six weeks. These herring were surrounded by their great enemies, dogfish, silver hake, squid, etc., and were without doubt devoured, man not having the privilege of catching one of them. The herring have not left the east coast, nor will they. The Bay of Fundy is full of herring today which could be had for the asking almost if State of Maine fishermen understood modern fishing conditions and practices. The Maine coast according to the best authorities is the natural breeding grounds for herring and one of the best fishing coasts in the world.

Regarding statements of alarmists that mackerel and pollock were driven from the Maine coast by seiners, and that herring will go likewise, the strongest argument against this is the fact that both mackerel and pollock are migratory fish, and are not natives of our coast. The fact that these natural enemies of herring have gone from our coast is one of the greatest benefits to the herring industry. The chief reason for these fish not reaching the Maine coast is the fact that they are being caught more and more each year in southern waters before they get so far north.

The history of the herring fisheries of Norway show that in the last 700 years, there have been three periods; 70, 50 and 30 years respectively, in which the herring left the coast and not one was taken during these years, but for 100 years their catch has continued about the same each year. About three years ago, laws were passed prohibiting trawl fishing within three miles of the shore, as the trawls interfered with herring fishing which is the most important of their fishing industries.

The State of Maine is letting a would-be industry of the utmost importance go almost untouched by neglecting to furnish an incentive or instructions to her coastwise inhabitants for catching and curing her herring, or in fact, any of her fish, as all foreign nations are doing, thereby causing a loss to our coast towns of thousands of dollars annually. Our trawling methods for herring imported from foreign countries. The statistics show that the United States imported 138,000 barrels of herring from the little country of Holland besides the fact that the fish from all other European countries. The same statistics show that over 7000 cases of sardines were imported last year. Meanwhile the people of Lubec and Eastport will see the hardest winter that has been known in that vicinity, simply because a lot of hysterical people passed a lot of foolish laws regulating an industry about which they are entirely ignorant. I feel perfectly safe in saying that if our fish were caught with the same care and the same methods as are used by foreign countries, and cured by approved methods, which our state through

Does Not Stimulate

Ayer's Sarsaparilla does not stimulate. It does not make you feel better one day, then as bad as ever the next. It is not a strong drink. No reaction after you stop using it. There is not a drop of alcohol in it. You have the steady, even gain that comes from a strong tonic and alternative. We wish you would ask your doctor about this. He knows. Trust him. Do as he says. scientific investigation could instruct us to do, that every shore town in Maine could have an industry that would be worth thousands of dollars annually to our people.

The province of New Brunswick passed a stringent law a few years ago against seining herring in Charlotte county, which is the county in which the most herring are caught. This law has made it possible for a combination to be formed among the weimen of Passamaquoddy Bay, which allows two companies to take all the fish which the combine catches, regardless of any price offered by competing companies. If such legislation should be enacted by our state legislature in this state, it would certainly leave an opening for such a combination wherever in the larger companies could be combining with the weimen, create a monopoly which would deprive all the smaller companies from obtaining fish and driving them out of business.

I believe that I have given the herring fisheries as much thought as any man in the state of Maine. My company is also largely interested in maintaining the same old methods for catching and curing fish that were in vogue before the Christian Era.

Now I submit to every intelligent citizen of the state. Does it look reasonable that there is not a possible way to improve those antiquated methods, or are we to continue with the same old look and line and the same old weir. Go out and catch the fish, throw them in the boat, let them lie in the bottom from 24 to 36 hours until, cleaned, bring them ashore, dress them, throw them down in a corner with a little salt, and after washing and drying offer them to the people as an article of food.

It is time Maine awakened to her opportunities along this line, and time that the fishermen of broad and fair minds awakened to the fact that they are using the same old methods for catching and curing fish that were in vogue before the Christian Era.

CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT

Rockland, November 15, 1910.
Personally appeared Neil S. Perry, who on oath declares that he is president in the office of the Rockland Publishing Co., and that of the issue of The Courier-Gazette of November 12, 1910, there was printed a total of 4,387 copies before me:
J. W. CROCKER
Notary Public.

The idea of the Dickens testimonial stamp has quickly gone around the globe, arousing enthusiastic interest everywhere. A note from England states that proof sets of the stamp have been issued, and the first copies forwarded to the king by his majesty's express desire. The delivery of the first 1,000,000 of the stamps was promised by Messrs. Tuck for about Nov. 10, the technical character of the stamp itself being responsible for the delay. It has been engraved on steel and printed on special hand-made paper. Every stamp bears a water-mark to insure against forgery. For the design and the legends seven leading members of the Dickens testimonial committee are responsible. As for the workmanship Sir Adolph Tuck, whose firm is producing the stamp for the more cost of the materials, states that no finer stamp has ever been produced. The committee hope that at least 10,000,000 of these testimonial stamps will be sold as assentary testimonial to the descendants of Charles Dickens, but this can only be done if every owner of a copy of Dickens shall match that copy with one of these stamps. The American stamp will differ from the English only in bearing the words "two cents" in place of "one penny." They will soon be on sale in all book stores.

If there is any official in Maine whose course in connection with law-breakers has been straightforward and consistent we should say it was Judge O. G. Hall of the Kennebec superior court, but he appears to have come into disfavor with the officers of the Civic League because of rulings in connection with certain billiard tables, valued at $5000, which the officers think should have been ordered destroyed. We haven't the text of Judge Hall's decision, but we'll bet a cookie it is based upon common-sense and will satisfy the average law-abiding citizen. Major Shore of the Bridgton News, that old war-horse of temperance warfare takes a pretty sensible view of the matter when he says:

Judge Hall whom Dr. Berry of the Civic League arraigns as faithless to duty because he did not doom to destruction pool or billiard tables upon which there had been gambling, has probably sent more rumblers to jail and for longer terms, than any Judge in Maine. An unflinching temperance man all his life, thirty-eight years ago the chief officer of Maine's largest and most influential temperance organization, if he can't be relied upon to mete out justice to law-breakers, there is little hope of finding anyone. But this habit of attacking judicial decisions, either on the stump, or in the newspapers, is right indecent and inimical to the public weal. Ought to be sharply called down.

The present Maine hunting season is young but already the list of killed sportsmen is an appalling one. Does the enjoyment of the hunt compensate for the loss of human life each year marked up against our shooting season? There is one easy and simple rule which if followed would eliminate all fatalities, namely that the hunter shall not fire his rifle until the game is actually uncovered to his view; but this plain essential of safety is wantonly disregarded. Any movement in the bushes is sufficient to bring a shot from the excited sportsman, eager for a deer and willing to take any chances for the sake of a carcass and a pair of antlers.

Now comes Col. Jasper E. Brady, one of the four officers sent by the government to investigate the destruction of the battleship Maine, in Havana harbor, Feb. 14, 1898, declaring that the mine which destroyed the battleship was placed by the Cubans in order to bring about war with Spain and the deliverance of Cuba. He further asserts that the information had been sent to the President and the Secretary of War. "When I went to investigate the disaster with three other United States officers," Colonel Brady said in a recent lecture at Kansas City, "there were three theories concerning the origin of the disaster—that the explosion was caused from the outside by agents of Spain, that it was caused from the inside, and that the Maine was anchored over a mine prepared by the Cubans. We are able to inform the President and the Secretary of War that the last theory was the most consistent with the facts. This leads to the conclusion that the Maine was blown up by the Cubans in order to bring on war with Spain and the deliverance of Cuba." Col. Brady said that Jose Zavaldo, a Cuban, fired the mine. Afterwards Zavaldo was shot by General Blanco. Well, it is one of the great mysteries that seems likely of solution when in the course of a few months the sunken battleship is raised to the surface.

We hope interest does not die down in the matter of the suggested Sea street improvements. The city has waited long—almost patiently—for a change to be made in this important but shabby and disgraceful thoroughfare. We believe that if a canvass were to be made it would disclose a hearty feeling on the part of the business interests of the city to go forward with the work with a broad and liberal hand, and let the taxpayers settle the bill. That is what ought to be done. The improvement would be for the benefit of all and all ought to be glad to join in paying for it.

Will Build Two Steamers

Cobb, Butler & Co. Have an Important Contract Which Means a Busy Winter and Spring.

Active work is to be resumed at once in the shipyard of Cobb, Butler & Co., which firm has just taken the contract to build the hulls for two large fishing steamers which are to be constructed this winter for the Atlantic Fertilizer & Oil Co., of 165 Broadway, New York City. The contract for the machinery, boilers, electric lighting plants, etc., was awarded to the Portland Company of Portland, which will also build the machinery for a third steambot for the same concern, the hull of which will be built by A. D. Storey of Essex, Mass. The three hulls are to be delivered at Portland April 1, when the work of installing the machinery and fitting the steamers for sea will be started.

The Portland Express of Thursday said: "The construction of the three steamers will give employment to nearly 500 skilled mechanics and boiler makers. The three steamers will be the largest and finest steam fishing boats on the Atlantic coast and are being built especially for speed. They will make 12 miles an hour. All three steamers will be identical. They were designed by B. H. Crowfield, the famous Boston yacht designer.

As a rule fishing steamers are not built on graceful lines but the three to be built for the New York company will be as graceful as many yachts. Mr. Crowfield has designed the craft with the intention of giving them a graceful as well as strong appearance. At the present time the Atlantic Fertilizer and Oil Company own 13 large steam fishing boats, but the three now to be built will be the largest in the fleet for they will measure 165 feet over all, 152 water line length, 23 feet beam and 12 feet depth of hold. The boilers will be of the three furnace Scotch type and will carry 160 horse power each. Triple expansion engines, similar to the engine installed in the steamer Monahan of the Eastern Steamship Co., by the Portland Company, will be placed in the three fishing steamers and the engines will develop 700 horse power so it will be seen that the boats will have great speed. Unlike many other fishing steamers, the three to be built for the Atlantic Fertilizer Company, will be lighted throughout by electricity, there will be a large powerful searchlight and the equipment will be of the best. The material used in the construction will be of the best. The frames will be of white oak while the planking will be of Georgia pine and oak. The interior and exterior of the deck houses will be large for the forward deck house will contain a large galley and a mess room. Above the galley and mess room there will be a large pilot house and staterooms for the captain, pilot and first mate. Forward there will be a large well ventilated galley with living accommodations for a crew of about 24. The house on the deck aft will contain the engine and boiler rooms and the staterooms of the engineers. Between the cabins will be the hold for carrying fish.

According to the contract the first boat of the trio will be delivered to the owners by the Portland Company on June 1, the second will be delivered on June 15, and the third will leave the Portland Company plant ready for sea July 15. When completed the boats will make the base of their operations at Promised Land, Long Island, N. Y. From that point they will fish all along the Atlantic coast, or between Eastport and Charleston, S. C. The steamers will carry a crew of 27 and will be used for seining for porphy fish during a greater part of the time, but they may be used for steam trawling during certain months of the year. The fish caught by the steamers will not be market fish, for the porphy fish are caught for the oil they contain.

While the three steamers for the Atlantic Co. are under construction the Portland Co. will also be equipping another steamer of about the same type for the Wilcox Fertilizer Co. for less than two months ago the local concern was awarded the contract for building a porphy steamer for the Wilcox Co. The steamer to be built for the Wilcox Co. will be 150 feet in length and will be equipped with engines developing 400 horse power. The hull is under construction at the present time and will be delivered to the Portland Co. in time for them to install the machinery so that the boat will be ready for service March 1.

George F. Reynolds, assistant manager of the Portland Co., said that besides the three steamers to be built for the Atlantic Fertilizer & Oil Co., during the coming winter, the Portland Company would undoubtedly build eight more of the same type for the same concern in another year. Mr. Reynolds said that each steamer would cost about $60,000 when complete, so that the contract signed in Boston means a total cost of about $180,000.

BURNS WERE FATAL

A third death resulted Friday from the gasoline explosion in the home of Edward Wood, Stonington, by which Mr. Wood's two young children were burned to death the day before. Mrs. Wood, who was so terribly burned that her recovery was not expected, died Friday morning. The funeral services for the three were held Sunday and the bodies buried in Hillside Cemetery.

The post office has donated its winter garments.

THE STONINGTON TRAGEDY

Result of Kerosene Explosion and Not From Gasoline—Three Deaths.

The correspondent of The Courier-Gazette sends the following particulars of the recent tragedy at Stonington, reported in our issue of Saturday:

May your correspondent be allowed to give a brief report as received from Miss May Etta Brown of the terrible tragedy of a fire in Stonington on Thursday last? Miss Brown and her mother Mrs. G. Augustus Brown, were the first to see and render aid to Mrs. Edward Wood and her six-year-old son Roswell, as the victims ran in flames from their burning home. Mrs. Brown rolled Mrs. Wood upon the ground while Miss Brown tore the shreds of clothing from the boy. He was almost immediately wrapped in a rug by another neighbor, Mrs. James Ira Hamblin. The boy did not die at once, but soon after, while lying on the ground, watched over and cared for, Mrs. Wood was removed to the Stonington hospital, where she still is, unable to talk and stand, even assisting to remove some of her clothing. She was so benumbed that her suffering was not then felt, but commenced as soon as she was entirely undressed and her nurse attended to her. Before her agony, however, she was able to give this account of the accident.

She was pouring kerosene oil on the smoldering fire. The flames ran up the can, which she probably dropped into the blaze, and seized a pair of water and threw it on. She said herself that "she might as well have thrown gasoline," as an explosion followed which blew the top of the stove off and scattered the flames over Roswell and the kitchen. Edward Wood also says that "there was no gasoline in his house, not a drop, and never was."

The two-year-old baby must have saved itself, as both Mr. Brown and Miss Etta saw it treading in the open door, the flames behind it. Then almost at once it was with them safe and sound, only the back of its hair singed. One four-year-old Katherine was suffocated in the fire, before her mother could get to her. The rest of her body and face unharmed. The oldest child, Morris, a boy of eight or nine, had stayed that night with his grandmother, Mrs. Daniel Haskell, people coming from the fire met him going home. Mrs. Wood's worst burns were her hands, face and chest. She was kept under the influence of opiates but lingered for twenty-four hours.

For a few years after Mr. Hatch's death, Mrs. Hatch remained in the home, and Nathan Farwell the younger, then a very young man, having been appointed to fill Mr. Hatch's place in the bank, and being greatly beloved by his aunt, took up his residence with her. When he married and made a home of his own he and his wife persuaded Mrs. Hatch to live with them, which she did until the death of the late Senator Nathan A. Farwell, when she went to live with Mrs. Farwell, who was her sister. Since Mrs. Farwell's death she has resided still with her beloved niece, the Misses Farwell, who have lovingly rendered her the most tender attentions and made her as comfortable as possible. There has been a service of affection which she fully appreciated.

Though not a constituent member Mrs. Hatch united with the First Baptist church in this city, not long after its organization and while as yet it was under the care of its founder and first pastor, Rev. Amariah Kallouch. From that time until her death, a period covering over seventy years, she has proved a loyal and devoted member, loving all its pastors, faithful to all its services and without the least self-consciousness conferring honor upon it by the manifestation of all the Christian graces, and the exercise of a power for good in all the walks and relations of life, and leaving behind her a delightful memory that will long be cherished. Loving life, she had no fear of death. Appreciating all the kindnesses lavished upon her, and feeling lightly the infirmities of age, she nevertheless ardently desired to depart and be with the loved ones she had so long outlived and with Christ her Savior. Her desire has been granted. Faith is realized in fruition and earth has been exchanged for heaven.

The funeral Monday afternoon was attended by many long-time friends, Rev. W. J. Day of the First Baptist church officiating and prayer was offered by Rev. W. O. Holman.

AMUSEMENTS.

Rockland Theatre opens with good bill. Three jolly crowds were present at the shows yesterday to witness the initial performances of this week's bill. As usual, not one was a bit disappointed with manager Rosenberg's offerings. A big bill for the week was promised and a big bill was presented and will be continued three times daily for today and tomorrow. A fine crowd at yesterday's shows proved the above a fact. To begin with, there is Harry Bouton and his company in their inevitable comedy magic. Did you ever see Harry Bouton, No? Well, just take a dime and a little spare time and watch the prince of magicians at the Rockland Theatre for a half hour to-night and if you can really and truthfully say that it is not the finest and funniest act of its kind ever seen in the city, the money will be cheerfully refunded. But the joke of it is, you can't. We know that or else we wouldn't offer the above guarantee. Mr. Bouton is not a magician. That much about him applied to him is an injustice, he is more than that. He is an entertainer of the first rank with Thurston, the great Lafayette and all of the first magnitude. He and his act is the greatest seen in the city for many a day.

Prince and Virginia proved themselves artists, rendering pleasing singing selections embellished with brilliant character numbers. Their act is as pleasing as it is new. Bob Jewett, a comedian, singer and impersonator, entertained in his own original way. He has a sweet voice of wonderful, sympathetic timbre, a facility for mimicry and a penchant for comical patter that makes him an entertainer of delectable qualities. Mr. Jewett's singing of the old time ballad "Silver Threads among the Gold," has been considered a rare treat in modern vaudeville.

The motion pictures are interesting and instructive.

Feb. 6-11—Mammoth Food Fair at the Arcade.

Alton Richards has returned with a fine buck from the Northern Maine woods.

Woodcock scarce, but partridges quite plentiful is the word brought back this fall by local sportsmen.

A window display in a fashionable cafe, John T. Berry and Clarence H. Merrifield have been elected honorary members of American Hook and Ladder Co.

Inspector General James Moriarty of Lewiston pays an official visit to the Naval Reserve tomorrow night. It is important that all the members are present.

The Kallioh Furniture Co. is making a number of important alterations in its store. A new carpet room is being added, and a balcony office is being constructed.

The residences of J. C. Perry and Mrs. E. W. Thurlow have been painted by Clifton and Karl, which firm is now painting N. B. Allen's new residence on Limerock street.

A. B. Allen's fruit and confectionery store was burglarized one night last week, goods to the value of about $40 being taken. It was found next morning that the front door had been forced. The burglars left no clew.

Owl's Head folks are to have a dance at Crescent Beach tomorrow night, to which Rockland friends are invited. For the convenience of the latter there will be a car after the dance. The following young ladies are in charge: Sadie Carver, Gertrude Carver, Flora Webster and Myra Smith.

A specimen of crude rubber from the Brazilian wilds is on exhibition in the Norcross corner drug store. It weighs 46½ pounds and the placard says that it cost $104.00. High prices are no novelty nowadays, but this lump of crude rubber would not impress the average person with being worth three figures.

Our writup of the opera "Iolanthe" failed, unintentionally, to mention two young ladies who contributed in a very important degree to its success—Margaret Ruggles, who officiated as conductor, and Miss Alice Fiske as pianist. Both have exceptional talent in those capacities, which was manifest in both presentations of the opera.

Mrs. L. R. Campbell sustained quite a bad fall one day last week while going to the woods. It was supposed at the time that her injuries were confined to a sprained ankle, but within a few days she had complained of a pain near the base of the brain, due probably to bruises which were received by her head striking against some object.

The ordinance relative to bicycle riding on the sidewalks is being vigorously violated and the police are on the warpath after the offenders. Friday a bicyclist ran into the wife of a prominent city official, shouting as he did so: "Get out of the way, old woman!" If that chap ever falls into the hands of the city official in question there will be things done.

The local hunters are coming out of the big woods, all reporting a fine time and plenty of game. John E. Leach, Bert Jameson, A. B. Butler and Walter Butler brought home seven deer; Major McLoon, Walter E. Weeks, John I. Snow, Levi E. Wade, Dr. Elven Alden, E. H. Dillaway of Winterport, Lient, Carl F. Snow of Lynn and H. P. Freeman of Boonville brought home nine deer.

The annual fair of the Universalist church takes place tomorrow afternoon and evening. It is expected to eclipse even the eclipse. Christmas decorations will predominate and a beautiful Christmas tree with attractive toys will be furnished for the children. The management promises the biggest and best display of useful and fancy articles ever given at a church fair in this city affording a fine chance to buy Christmas presents. The Mandolin Club will furnish music afternoon and evening, and one of the famous Universalist suppers will be served.

E. W. Palmer is mourning the loss of his driving horse, which had faithfully served the family for more than 25 years. The animal had become so weakened by old age that it became necessary to hasten the end. Mr. Palmer took a farewell ride behind him one day last week and the horse was then led away to execution. Mr. Palmer and the late W. J. Perry rode hundreds of miles behind the horse on their hunting expeditions and the demise of their faithful friend calls vividly to Mr. Palmer's mind a host of recollections of those good old days.

Mr. Palmer's horse in his youthful days had aspirations to fame as a race horse and as a 4-year-old did a mile in 2:37½ on the Fairfield track the day before Mr. Palmer purchased him. At that time he bore the name of Kennebec Boy. His trotting career ceased on the day of the purchase.

A stable at the rear of John Bird Co.'s block on Seaside street was destroyed by fire Sunday night. A horse and some chickens belonging to Maurice Pollock perished in the flames. An explosion of 50 gallons of gasoline, also owned by Mr. Pollock, caused much excitement and placed in some peril those who were nearest the fire. One young man was so dismayed by the occurrence that he jumped overboard, and was fished out with considerable difficulty. Fear that flames would communicate to the gas plant caused part of the crowd to hasten back toward Main street. A small building formerly used as a cooper shop, and now occupied by a Mrs. Howard and children, caught fire but the flames were quickly extinguished. The barn was owned by Benjamin Clark. For a small fire this one created more excitement than any that Rockland has seen for many a day.

Five boys, all of whom are under eight years of age, broke into a freight car at the Maine Central depot Sunday forenoon and raised havoc with some grocery articles which were being shipped to nearby towns by the John Bird Co. Several cases of corned beef were opened and the seals ripped off. About half a gross of matches was taken, and to see if they would work the kids piled some excelsior under the freight platform and touched it off. To make it burn even faster they poured the contents of several Jamaica ginger bottles onto the heap. A dozen boxes of thread were also taken. The youngsters were apprehended through the observant powers of Ray Hathaway of the depot staff, who saw the kids around the depot in the forenoon, saw them later laden with matches, and connected the two with the car robbery. The lads were not arrested, and it has not been determined just what disposition will be made of them. One of the boys is identified as belonging to a set that has been making petty thefts all along the street particularly in the fruit and confectionery stores.

Absentminded.
Modjeska used to tell a story about her honeymoon that is somewhat amusing. When the Countess and Count of Bozenta were on their wedding trip it happened one morning that she had just got up when the count, who had been out for an hour or two taking a morning walk, came back and called to her excitedly: "Helen! Helen! Come here."
"What is it?"
"Come here quick. I've brought you some lovely fruit, the first of the market."
"All right; I'm dressing. I'll come as soon as I have finished getting ready."
She dressed leisurely and entered the sitting room. The count was sitting reading, deeply interested in his book. She looked round. No fruit was to be seen. She looked all over the place. The count looked up.
"What are you looking for?"
"Where's that fruit?"
The count looked on the table. It was not there.
"Good gracious!" he said. "I'll be hanged if I haven't eaten it!"

The Wicked Multiplication Table.
A minister was bearing his Sunday school repeat the catechism one Sunday preceding confirmation when a boy from the class of small children ventured to ask a question of the minister.
Turning to the clerk, the boy inquired in an anxious tone, "Why does the multiplication table make people wicked?"
The minister thought at first that the child had taken occasion to propound a conundrum at a most unseasonable time and was about to reprove him when the earnestness of the expression in the upturned face assured him that the question was asked in good faith and required a reply.
"Why do you ask such a question, John? I never knew it to do so," he said.
John turned to his catechism and read from it with a mystified air the question, "Did man grow worse as he began to multiply?" and the accompanying answer, "He did."

CAPT. GEORGE E. RACKLIFF.
Capt. George E. Rackliffe of Westbrook died last Wednesday at the age of 85. He was born at St. George, June 28, 1825, one of 12 children, all of whom are dead except a sister, Mrs. Eleanor Chapman of Vinalhaven. Capt. Rackliffe followed the sea for 21 years, sailing for many years from Gloucester. He went to Westbrook in 1884. He was thrice married. His first wife was Hannah Thompson of Friendship. They had 12 children. He later married Mrs. Angie L. Rivers of South Thomaston, and after her death, Jane Burgess of Vinalhaven, by whom he had one son. Five children, Mrs. Clara L. Severance of Natick, Mass., Mrs. Mabel McDonald of Muscoota, Minn., Ernest B. Evan D. and Claude E. Rackliffe of Westbrook, survive. Capt. Rackliffe was the first to take a haddock travel out of Portland. Previous to the 50's haddock had been caught by a single line. The first trawls he set had from 75 to 100 hooks. Now from 3000 to 5000 are set.

BOUGHT PROHOCK FARM.
Louis Pennington of New York has bought of the Frohock brothers of Lincolnville, the Frohock property, comprising 155 acres, reaching from the shore of Knight pond. The property is very valuable. Mr. Pennington will erect a summer home there. Mr. and Mrs. Pennington were guests last summer in Belfast of Mrs. A. K. McLane of Washington, D. C., at her beautiful summer place in Northport avenue and were charmed with the coast of Penobscot bay. The shore property between Belfast and Camden is fast being developed and some very fine villas are being erected.

The Gypsies.
The origin of the people known as gypsies remains largely a mystery. Egypt, India, Persia and Arabia have in turn been pointed out as their original country, but there is little definite knowledge on the subject. The weight of evidence is in favor of their having originated in India. They first appeared in Europe about 1400 and from the Danube region spread all over the continent, appearing in England about 1520.

HE GOT THE GOODS.

Business Deal Between Potter Palmer and A. T. Stewart.

At the time of the civil war Potter Palmer was in the dry goods business in Chicago and Levi Z. Leiter and Marshall Field were working for him. Palmer wasn't so well known, but he had a good reputation in the trade, and he didn't have to introduce himself when he called on old A. T. Stewart to buy some goods. After some dickering they agreed upon the price, and Palmer calmly said that he would take about $100,000 worth. It was a little larger bill than Stewart exactly cared to sell young Palmer on credit, but he concluded to make the deal and told him to come in the next morning, and arrange some final details. That night some big war news came, and it didn't require any declaration to the government to inform every dry goods man in the country that the price of goods would take a big jump up. Stewart recognized it as soon as he had the news, and he immediately thought of Palmer. He also thought of the big bill of goods Palmer had bought of him. It didn't matter much to Stewart, but it did to Palmer. But it required only a few sentences to his red head to fix things to his satisfaction. He would simply tell Palmer that he was sorry, but that he didn't feel that he could sell such a big bill on credit, and as he knew that Palmer couldn't raise the cash immediately, why, that would end it, and the sale would be off. Well, young Palmer called early, and Stewart greeted him in his very abrupt manner, telling him how sorry he was, etc., but really he didn't think it wise business to extend credit for such an amount.

"Just how much does the bill come to?" said young Palmer, seemingly sorrowful-like.

"Just $110,000," Stewart replied, and then he straightway gulped for breath as young Palmer drew an immense pocketbook from his inside vest pocket and, opening it, counted out 110 thousand dollar bills and, laying them quietly on Stewart's desk, said: "If you will kindly count them and give me a receipt I'll be obliged, as I must take the next train home. Ship the goods soon as you can, and when you're out our way drop in. Always glad to see our friends."

AN ARTFUL REPORTER.

Got the Oil King Unconsciously to Submit to an Interview.

Playwright Eugene Walter is numbered among the newspaper men who obtained the "first interview" with John D. Rockefeller. When the First Interview With Rockefeller club is formed Mr. Walter will be one of the charter members.

This is how he managed it: In the days when he was a newspaper reporter in Cleveland Walter was an extremely youthful looking young man. He decided to capitalize his puerile appearance, for it was not an easy task even at that time to get Rockefeller to say anything. He was utterly "improachable," as a colored man once remarked.

Walter got into the Forest Hill grounds from the rear and walked about, looking at the flowers and shrubbery with an apparent lack of purpose, just as a boy would.

Rockefeller finally noticed him gazing abstractedly at a flower bed and went up to talk to him.

"Ah, my fine lad," began John D. "are you fond of flowers?"

"Indeed I am, sir," replied Walter in true McGuffey Reader style.

"Well, I am always glad to see a boy who appreciates the beauties of nature. Would you care to walk over and look at the pond lilies?"

"Ah, sir, I should enjoy that more than I can tell you."

Thus the conversational ice was broken, and the youthful visitor was so enthusiastic over all he saw that the master of Forest Hill passed him out platitudes for about an hour. The interviewer didn't even have to ask questions.

Next morning Walter's interview was the best thing in the paper.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CIRCUSES.

The Old and the New and the Greatest Drawing Card.

Before the one ring days and going back a few centuries the circus was represented in the person of a mountebank, a thin visaged, clean shaven man who hitched his trapeze to the sturdy limb of a village oak and did feats to the ill concealed amazement of a people who respected God somewhat, but the devil and his black magic a great deal more.

A long and high jump this—from mountebank to modern hippodrome, from a man who lived under his hat to a tented city which houses as many as 25,000 people in one day, and regularly furnishes food, shelter and transportation for 1,200 more, to say nothing of a hospital, a postoffice and a commissary where one can purchase almost anything from a postage stamp to a suit of overalls.

The big show today is as highly specialized and deviously organized as is our greatest business institution. Its maintenance costs a thousand dollars an hour. Yes, it's a long jump from the mountebank; but, after all, things haven't changed so much in some ways.

A man who was running a trick pony and dog show last year added a "thriller" to his program in the way of a dangerous flying trapeze act. To the delight of his pockets, but the intense disgust of his trainer's soul, the door receipts almost doubled. He had two men at the door one night who asked the outgoing crowds which part of the show they liked best—the trick animals or the acrobats. They answered as one, "The acrobats!"

Danger—danger to other human lives and limbs—that's the drawing card, after all, excepting only the children who are too young to be gory minded and who find most delight in the clowns. We grownups like the "thrillers"—the more deadly the better.

care of yourself. This is generally the first symptom of some organic derangement and often the fault of indigestion. If not corrected, "off color" is followed by blemishes, lassitude, dull eyes, heavy head, bad breath and the symptoms all are familiar with, who have a disorganized stomach. The whole system soon gets out of gear, incapacitating one for either pleasure or work. The backache, nervous spells, impoverishment of the strength and blood are easily encouraged and developed unless something is done to restore and invigorate.

Does Not Strain the Eyes

Don't use a small, concentrated light over one shoulder. It puts an unequal strain on your eyes. Use a diffused, soft, mellow light that cannot flicker, that equalizes the work of the eyes, such as the Rayo Lamp gives, and avoid eye strain.

The Rayo is designed to give the best light, and it does. It has a strong, durable shade-holder that is held firm and true. A new burner gives added strength. Made of solid brass and finished in nickel. Easy to keep polished. The Rayo is low priced, but no other lamp gives a better light at any price.

GLASS AND CUT GLASS

Pressed Ware at Times Deceives Even Experts.

A GUIDE FOR THE UNWARY.

The Seeker After Cut Glass Is Safe In Purchasing "Closed In" Articles, as They Cannot Be Duplicated in Pressed Glass—Art of the Cutter.

Buyers for large houses are sometimes deceived when buying cut glass and find they have bought what is commercially known as pressed glass instead of the genuine article.

Yet there are a few simple rules that will safeguard the ordinary buyer at retail. The chief one is to pick out only what the manufacturer has enclosed in articles. By this he means vases, jugs, pitchers, bottles and the like.

These cannot be duplicated in pressed glassware, which is first molded in patterns and the edges ground. This process gives it so close a resemblance to real cut glass that even experts may be deceived.

But in the "closed in" articles some way is yet to be devised by which the pressed lines can be followed through the opposite side when put on the wheel to be cut, as the pressed part interferes with the workman seeing through the glass, which he has to do in order to follow the lines of the design on the cutter.

The kind of cut glass that is counterfeited is called open work, such as plates, napkins or any flat article through which the workman can readily see when finishing it.

Another help in selecting cut glass is its weight. The genuine is made from pure lead glass, made chiefly in America, especially for cutting. This lead glass is very heavy.

The first step toward cutting is to mark on the "blank"—that is, the disk in the clear glass—in red or other paint the design that has been selected for it.

The most common designs are diamond shapes, stars of various points, crosses and squares and other geometrical patterns.

The design must be marked on the glass exactly to stand the test of compass and rule. When all lines are in perfect accordance with the pattern and also fit the blank the "roughing" begins. This is cutting the heavy work, such as the necks of vases and bottles and the heavy lines on the stars.

This is done on a machine called the "mill," a big wooden framed affair, on top of which is a nopper holding about half a ton of Berkshire hills sand. This sand is the only kind in this country that has proved satisfactory for this work.

The sand runs down through the hopper, is moistened with water and comes out of a large steel disk, the edge of which is sharp. This disk is turned by power at a very high speed. The wet sand of the disk gives it a "tooth," which when the glass is held against the edge of the disk cuts very rapidly.

All the coarse and heavy cutting is done on this "mill." Then cutting in of the finer work begins on a mill with a stone disk resembling an old fashioned grindstone, but much narrower and with a beveled edge. These stones come chiefly from Italy or Scotland. They are very hard and carry a keen edge a long time. They are used for the fine cutting all together.

There is a stone found in Nova Scotia much softer that cuts quicker and is used for fluting on water bottles and computes where heavy cuts are desired. Very often as many as fifteen or twenty different stones of varying degrees of hardness are used for the cutting of one article.

After the design has been all cut comes one of the most difficult parts of the work, the polishing.

This is done on the outside of the work with a very high speeded brush wheel covered with moistened pumice stone powdered. This stone is lava thrown off by a volcano.

Large wooden disks made to fit the cuts and fed with pumice and water are used for polishing the fine work in and around the delicate tracery of the pattern.

The hand of the glass cutting expert must be steady, strong and accurate, for the least mistake spoils a whole pattern. In the case of a fourteen inch punch bowl this means the loss of $50.

Another kind of glass cutting is known as stone engraving. It is done with little stone wheels and copper tools entirely by hand. The designs are chiefly vines and flowers. They are not cut deep and are often mistaken for pressed glass. In reality they are the most expensive kind of cut glass, the price for a single piece of large size and ornate decoration reaching four figures.

Glass cutting is not only a trade, but an art, and any one after seeing the method employed will readily understand why genuine cut glass commands high prices.—Boston Globe.

A FEAT OF CONJURING.

The Popular Coffee Trick and How It Is Performed.

METHODS OF THE MAGICIAN.

Changing White Paper Into Milk, Blue Paper Into Mocha and Bran into Cut Sugar is Comparatively Easy When You Have Been Shown the Way.

A trick always popular with the professional conjurer is that known as the "coffee trick," though some high fauntin title, as, for instance, "Mar about Mocha," is better for a program. It has the advantage too of not conveying any idea of what the trick is to be. The trick is as simple as for the drawing room as for the stage, and an amateur with a little practice may do it easily. Remember, with a little practice, for like every other thing in conjuring, not only a little but sometimes a great deal of practice is necessary if the performer desires to do his tricks with ease and skill and so as to bewilder his audience.

When about to present this trick the performer has on a table three wooden boxes, a large goblet shaped glass jar and two German silver "shakers" or cups, such as are used in mixing lemon juice, ice, etc., for a glass of lemonade. In one of the boxes is a quantity of bran, in another some pieces of chopped up white paper and in the third a similar lot of blue paper. These, with two pieces of black velvet, each about nine inches square, and a paper cylinder, are all that appear to be used in the trick. Picking up one shaker, the performer fills it with white paper and immediately pours it back into the box. Again he dips the shaker into the box and, with a shoveling motion, fills it and stands it on a table so that every one may see it. The other shaker he fills in the same way, but with the blue paper. Finally the glass jar is filled with velvet squares and spread one of the velvet squares and the other shaker is covered with the second velvet square, but without any metal plate.

"Remember," says the performer, "this cup is filled with white paper and that one with blue," and, pulling the velvet piece off one cup, he pours from it into a small pitcher about a pint of milk—"The milk of human kindness as extracted from the daily press." Removing the metal plate and the velvet from the second cup, he pours from it into the first cup "steaming Mocha coffee; no grounds for complaint." Picking up the paper cylinder, he drops it over the upper part of the glass jar, and, lifting it up and placing it immediately on the top of it, he places a small, round metal plate. The other shaker is covered with the second velvet square, but without any metal plate.

It is a showy trick which is generally followed by applause, that sweetest of music to a performer. Here is the explanation:

In each box of paper is a duplicate with coffee. Fitted into the mouth of each shaker is a shallow metal saucer, the edges during so as to rest on the mouth of the cup. At one point on the edge of each saucer is soldered a semicircle of stiff wire about the size of a dime, so that the performer may easily grasp it. On each saucer is glued some bits of the paper with which the shaker is supposed to be filled. These shakers stand upright in the box in such position that the wire piece of the saucer will be toward the performer when he is ready to remove the velvet cover. As he shoves the paper into the shaker he leaves that one in the box, grasps the other, and with milk or coffee and brings it out some of the loose bits of paper clinging round the top. These he brushes off carelessly and in doing so, when necessary, adjusts the shaker so that the wire finger piece will be in the proper position. In covering the shakers the performer takes hold of the velvet covers so that the thumb and the third and fourth fingers are under the cover, and with these he catches hold of the projecting finger piece, lifts up the saucers and draws them off, dropping them instantly into a padded box or bag fastened at the back of the table.

As a glass jar is transparent, it follows that a mere saucer of bran in its mouth would not do, so resort is had to another device. A hollow shape of tin, slightly tapering, that fits loosely in the jar is used. The larger end, which is the top, is closed while the bottom is open. From the top is a fine stiff wire passing from one side to the other. It describes a small bow that serves as a handle to lift out the shape. Bran is glued over the outside of the shape, and some loose bran is spread over the top. The shape is filled with lump sugar, placed inside a second jar and stood inside the box of bran. When the first jar is put into the box, ostensibly to be filled, the performer exchanges it for the second. This he takes out and shows it apparently filled with bran. It is covered with the paper cylinder, which goes on loosely, and in removing this the performer slips one finger under the wire handle, lifts out the shape and the sugar falls into the jar. As the shape is taken out the performer's hand passes carelessly over the box of bran, into which the shape is dropped. At almost the same moment the paper is crumpled up and tossed into the audience. The trick is so neatly done and is so simple that he must be a bungler, indeed, who cannot deceive even a clever audience.

The coffee may be served to the audience.—St. Nicholas.

Her Very Clear Thoughts.

"Well, surely, what are your thoughts about matrimony?" asked a young woman in Scotland the other day of her aunt, a decent body who had reached the shady side of life without having committed matrimony.

"Deed, lassie," frankly replied the old lady, "I've had but three thoughts about it in my days, and the first is to be the longest. First, then, when I was young, like yourself, I thought, 'What'll I tak?' Then, as time began to wear by, I thought, 'What'll I get?' An' after I got my leg broken w' that whumel out o' Saunders McDrumhies' cart my thoughts syne have bin, 'What'll I tak' me?"

Politeness In China.

In China parents are held responsible for the manners of their children. Accordingly, for the credit of their parents, people try to be polite. If you are mobbed in a Chinese town you should look straight at one or two of the people and say: "Your parents did not pay much attention to your manners. They did not teach you the rules of propriety." A remark like this will make the crowd sink away, one by one, ashamed of themselves.

The Reason of It.

KNOX CHAPTER, D. A. R.

The November meeting of Lady Knox Chapter, D. A. R., was held at the home of Mrs. G. W. Smith and was much enjoyed by the members present. The new ritual was used for the first time and was found to be most appropriate and impressive. "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" was sung in memory of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe. The program consisted of a guitar and mandolin duet by Mrs. Smith and Malcolm Smith; a "Colonial Romance" read by Mrs. Smith and an old ballad by a Maine composer sung by Mrs. Blackington. The story read by Mrs. Smith was an authentic letter which had been preserved as a family relic and described incidentally, a colonial tea party. After the program the hostess served refreshments in keeping with the atmosphere of old Colonial days.

AND WHEN?

The Knox Democratic county committee has endorsed the candidacy of Obadiah Gardner for U. S. Senator, of Tyler M. Cooch of Vinalhaven for the board of State assessors, and of Joseph M. Porter of Waldo for State inspector of factories, etc. Now where does Hon. Lindsey Murray Staples come in?—Herald Journal.

"I have something for you here, my love," said Mr. Darley as he proceeded to open a large, round box.

"What is it, precious?"

"Wait and see," Darley carefully unwrapped the article and disclosed a lady's hat.

"Isn't it a beauty?" he asked. "I bought it myself as a surprise to you. Don't you think it is a perfect dream?"

Mrs. Darley gazed at the hat and burst into tears.

"I can't wear it," she cried. "It doesn't suit me at all. You meant to please me. I know, but it isn't my style at all."

"Don't cry, dear. The milliner said you could exchange it, and if you agree not to buy any ties for me hereafter I'll let you select your own hats and bonnets."

An agreement was concluded on that basis.

News has been received in town of the death of Mrs. Albert Hartford, which occurred in Rockland Wednesday, Nov. 9, after an illness of a few weeks.

Mrs. Dana Holmes of Auburn is the guest of Mrs. Abbie Benner, Sea street. Mrs. J. Henry Bohndell returned Monday from Dorchester, Mass., where she has been spending several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Fred H. Sylvester.

Edgar Smith of Rockland was the guest of relatives in town Tuesday.

Mrs. Frances Linnell left Thursday morning for Brunswick where she will be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Mary Wheeler, and later will go to Somerville, Mass., where she will spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Alton Pratt.

A goodly number from town attended the opera "Iolanthe" in Rockland Wednesday evening.

One of the most enjoyable open meetings of the Twenty Century Club was held last Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. J. Cole, Central street. The rooms were made attractive by decorations of potted plants and cut flowers. The members of the Club and invited guests numbered about forty.

Mrs. Cole was assisted in receiving by Miss Maria M. Bartlett, Mrs. Walter R. Bartlett of Rockport, Mass., and Mrs. A. C. Moore. The program was a most interesting one and the paper written and read by Mrs. Cole, "Romance of the Isle of Shoals," showed careful study and held the closest attention of all present. The poem "To a Pair of Egyptian Slippers" was beautifully read by Mrs. M. M. Bartlett, whose pleasing manner and choice selections are always a delight to her hearers. Mrs. Annie Hodgman of Camden furnished the musical part of the program with the Victor talking machine, rendering several selections from such artists as Calve, Melba and Caruso. Fruit punch was served during the afternoon and at 6:30 o'clock a most delicious supper consisting of meats, salads, oysters, hot rolls, cake and coffee were served. The evening was pleasantly spent with games and music. The occasion will long be remembered as one of the most delightful in the history of the Club.

A very quiet wedding was solemnized Thursday morning, Nov. 10 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Campbell, Union street, when Miss Gladys Gertrude Conary, sister of Mrs. Campbell, and George Brainerd Murch, both of Bar Harbor were united in marriage by Rev. George O. Richardson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. The rooms were tastefully decorated, the couple standing beneath an arch of greenery and red berries from which was suspended a wedding bell. The couple left on the afternoon train for New York where they will spend their honeymoon, and will return to Bar Harbor where they will reside. Their many friends extend congratulations.

Mrs. Emma Sylvester recently picked a bouquet of "Dorothy Perkins" roses on the grounds of Cyrus H. K. Curtis, Beachamp Point, which were as fragrant and beautiful as in the month of June.

Mrs. Jennie Harkness will entertain the Twentieth Century Club this Tuesday afternoon at her home West street. The first paper will be by Mrs. Blanche Spear, subject, "Thomas M. Newman and His Great Works." Amenhotep, Second and Third." The second paper will be by Mrs. Martha Piper, subject "Egyptian Music, Art and Architecture."

Harry McKisson has returned from Dr. King's Portland hospital almost entirely recovered from a critical surgical operation, and is on duty at the Central Square hotel.

Mark Twain said the only introduction to a literary audience that seemed to him the right word in the right place, a real inspiration, was as follows:
"Ladies and gentlemen, I shall not waste any unnecessary time in the introduction. I don't know anything about this man—at least I only know two things about him. One is that he has never been in prison, and the other is I can't see why he hasn't."

A Towel Story.
In a certain New England town they manufacture a well known kind of towel, most efficient for drying purposes. How that towel first happened to be made in the town which has proved so profitable to its makers is the subject of an amusing legend. It savors strongly of belonging to the "too good to be true" genus of anecdotes and is as follows:

Once the machinery in the towel factory, busily engaged in turning out a very conventional line of towels, suddenly went wrong and began practically to go backward. There was much excitement. Eventually the machinery was chastised and set to rights again.

But it was discovered that the towels turned out during that interval of mechanical anarchy were of a texture quite unrivaled for use as bath towels. At once the machinery was set going backward again and has been traveling in that direction ever since.

To the great delight of the stockholders in the towel company.—New York Times.

"ALL IS FORGIVEN"

Happy Ending to a Romance Which Concerns a Little Deer Isle Man

"All is forgiven; come home and receive our blessing and congratulations."

Such in substance was the message sent Monday by Mr. and Mrs. John Bechtold of 122 Pennsylvania avenue, Newark, N. J., to their daughter May, who is now Mrs. George H. Hendricks of Little Deer Isle, Me.

Miss Bechtold and Mr. Hendricks met at the home of a friend in Newark several months ago while the Maine man was on a visit. Another visit by Hendricks was the sequel to that first meeting. He did not go to the home of Miss Bechtold and she did not inform her parents of her romance.

It was ostensibly to visit a friend, but actually to join her fiancé and seek out the clergyman to make them one that Miss Bechtold left home on the evening of Oct. 24. When she failed to return her relatives were mystified. The mystery was only intensified when the discovery was made that most of Miss May's personal effects, including a lot of her clothes were missing.

SHOAL SPOTS LOCATED

In Deer Island Thorofare, Isle au Haut Bay and Eggemoggin Reach.—Important to Mariners.

"Notice to Mariners," under date of Nov. 4, has the following to say concerning the finding of shoal spots on this part of the Maine coast:

Deer Island Thorofare—Decreased Depths.—(a) A single boulder, over which there is a least depth of 8 feet at mean low water, has been found in Deer Island Thorofare between Grog Island and the Bold Island Ledges. The rock lies about 900 feet 101 degrees true (SE by E 9-16 E mag.) from the easternmost point of Grog Island and very near the position of a 12-foot sounding reported in October, 1907.

(b) Rockwood Ledge, shown on the charts as a 3-foot rock just north of Russ Island, was found to have over it a depth of 1.5 instead of 3 feet at mean low water.

East Penobscot Bay—Isle au Haut Bay—Shoals.—The following shoals in Isle au Haut Bay have been discovered by the use of a wire drag:

(a) A ridge, about 390 feet long in a general Nly and Sly direction, over which there is a least depth of 23 feet at mean low water near its Nly end, was found with its shoalest point lying about 2.5 miles 13 degrees 10 min. true (NNE 5/8 E mag.) from Saddleback Ledge Light-house. Position: Lat., 44 deg. 03 min., 18 sec. N; long., 68 deg., 42 min., 50 sec. W.

(b) A ridge, about 585 feet long in a general NNE and SSW direction, over which there is a least depth of 21 feet at mean low water near its Sly end, was found with its shoalest point lying about 2.8 miles 19 deg. true (NNE 5/8 N mag.) from Saddleback Ledge Light-house. Position: Lat., 44 deg., 03 min., 34 sec. N; long., 68 deg., 42 min., 19 sec. W.

(c) A shoal over which there is a least depth of 23 feet at mean low water on a pinnacle near its center was found with its shoalest point about 2.5 miles 27 deg. true (NNE 5/8 N mag.) from Saddleback Ledge Light-house. Position: Lat., 44 deg., 03 min., 06 sec. N; long., 68 deg., 42 min., 03 sec. W.

The 23 foot spot is very near a 4 1/2-fathom spot previously reported, and a depth of 27 feet was found 495 feet N'd and 31 feet, 330 feet S'd of it.

(d) The shoal, locally known as Meeting House Ground, as mentioned in Notice to Mariners—No. 37 (2470) of 1910, was examined and least depth of 38 feet at mean low water at its center, was located about 1.7 miles 259 deg. 30 min. true (W 3-16 N mag.) from Isle au Haut Light-house. Position: Lat., 44 deg., 03 min., 35 sec. N; long., 68 deg., 41 min., 21 sec. W. This shoal is triangular in shape with apex of triangle pointing N'd of 18-foot rock, and is about 900 feet in extent with depths of 30 feet at least.

A pinnacle rock, separate from Meeting House Ground shoal, lies about 1.245 feet (0.2 mile) 57 deg. true (ENE 1/2 E mag.) from 18-foot rock.

(e) A depth of 26 feet at mean low water was found over pinnacle rock lying about 1.3 miles 246 deg., 05 min. true (W 5/8 S mag.) from Isle au Haut Light-house. Position: Lat., 44 deg., 03 min., 21 sec. N; long., 68 deg., 40 min., 45 sec. W.

WEIGH YOURSELF BEFORE USING

Use Samose, the great flesh-forming food. The wonderful result in this preparation since first introduced in Rockland and the remarkable results following its use have made C. H. Pendleton such an enthusiastic believer in the great value of Samose that he gives his personal guarantee to refund the money if Samose will not make thin people fat and restore strength and health to those who use it.

This is a strong guarantee, but C. H. Pendleton has seen so many of his customers who a few weeks ago looked like walking skeletons become plump and well, solely through the use of Samose, that he feels he cannot say too much to induce people to try it.

This marvelous flesh-forming food is assimilated as soon as it is taken into the stomach, makes good rich blood, tones up the weakened system, helps to assimilate the food and makes the user plump, well and rosy.

NEEDFUL KNOWLEDGE.

Rockland People Should Learn to Detect the Approach of Kidney Disease.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy, Bright's disease, or diabetes. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

You can use no better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's Rockland proof:

Mrs. Alice Tibbitts, living at 117 New County Road, Rockland, Me., says: "My kidneys troubled me for a year or more and although I consulted physicians and took medicines of various kinds I continued to suffer from backache. Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at Hill's drug store was the first remedy to help me. They soon entirely removed the pain in my back. I have the utmost confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills and highly recommend them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A Deer Hunting Tragedy

Alton W. Decrow of Rockland Under $2000 Bonds for Accidental Shooting in Piscataquis County.

The horrors of the north woods hunting tragedies were brought closer home Saturday when news was received here that Alton W. Decrow of this city had accidentally killed a man in Bowerbank, Piscataquis county.

Mr. Decrow was arraigned in the municipal court at Dover Saturday night under the special statute for "taking human life while hunting wild game." He entered a plea of "not guilty," and was released under $300 bonds, bail being furnished by other members of the ill-fated shooting party.

The first news of the tragedy to reach this city came in the form of the following despatch from Dover, which appeared in several Maine dailies Saturday morning:

"Daniel Crossman of Foxcroft, about 45 years old, was shot and killed this forenoon in the woods at Bowerbank about three miles from Willimantic, being mistaken for a deer by Alton W. Decrow of Rockland, one of the party hunting in that region."

"Crossman was employed by William Plummer of Foxcroft, who is conducting a logging operation, his wife and four children living in a camp. His wife has been the cook for the crew. Crossman had been in camp sharpening a cross-cut saw and was walking along the logging road when the shot was fired by Decrow, the slug going through the saw and striking Crossman in the shoulder, passing through the body."

The injured man lived four or five hours. The body was brought here Friday afternoon.

"Decrow says that he did not know that there was a logging road there or any person in that vicinity. He saw the bushes move, thought it was a deer and fired."

The story of the inquest which was held Saturday was told by the Sunday Globe as follows:

"An inquest was held Saturday afternoon by Coroner Holt of Dover, County Attorney Burgess appeared for the state. The jurors were John F.

Sprague, Allen P. Clark, A. G. Blithen, H. N. Spaulding, L. E. Evans and D. E. Dinsmore.

"The evidence of Decrow and other members of the hunting party was heard. It was brought out that Crossman was walking through the woods, bearing on his shoulder a cross-cut saw which bobbed up and down as he walked. Decrow saw the moving handle of the saw and, mistaking it for the tail of a running deer, fired the fatal shot. The verdict of the jury follows:

"That Daniel Crossman came to his death on the 11th day of November, 1910, in the town of Bowerbank in Piscataquis county by a bullet fired from a gun in the hands of Alton W. Decrow, who was then and there in the pursuit of wild game, and that said Decrow was negligent and careless in firing said bullet."

"It is expected that County Attorney Burgess will present the matter to the grand jury at the next session."

Mr. Decrow was home Sunday, but too much overcome to discuss the sad affair, other than confirm the story as published by the newspapers, and reiterate as above. Much sympathy is extended to him and his grief-stricken family from all sides. Mr. Decrow, who resides on Grove street, is a railway mail clerk and actively identified with St. Peter's Episcopal church. He is held in very high esteem by all who know him and in his home town there is universal regret that he should be connected, even innocently, with such a deplorable affair.

Mr. Decrow returned to Dover yesterday.

The statutes provide a penalty of not more than 10 years' imprisonment or a fine not exceeding $1000.

Orders for all kinds of shoe repairing for R. K. Harvey may be left at The Courier-Gazette Office.

Dollar days at E. B. Hastings & Co., Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

'T WAS WOOLWORTH DAY

Story of Saturday's Frenzied Proceedings Told in Prose and in Verse.—The New York Stock Market Outdone.

The new 5 and 10 cent store of F. W. Woolworth & Co. in Masonic Temple was opened for business Saturday forenoon, coinciding with that important event a rival concern down the street made a bid for its share of the patronage by offering unusual bargains.

The scene that took place in this city Saturday morning is one of the best descriptions of a sunnier day than any previous knowledge of a sunnier day was limited to. Breakfasts were prepared with a rapidity that simply astounded the wondering hordes. Dishes were tossed into the sink in a manner that plainly said: "Smash if you want to; there are plenty more at Woolworth's and they're cheaper than dirt."

Down street, up street and over street they came, until all the highways and byways were filled with excited women, flushed with the lust of prospective bargains.

First to Woolworth's and then to the rival store down the street; back and forth they surged the whole day long, in ecstasies over their good fortune, or bemoaning the fact that a neighbor got one of those dear little tea sets while they had to be content with a basket or wash basin.

What actually took place within the throne rooms of such exalted bargains is beyond the writer's ken. Schoolboys to all the horrors of modern football, not for the world would he have ventured beyond the portals into that seething crowd of frenzied females.

Rumor hath it that Alphonse and Gaston, courtiers who dined with an innocent man who had been carried into the store quite against his will, apologized for stepping on a woman's toe. She cast upon him a look of withering scorn, and because of his presumption in wasting her valuable time listening to an apology. Two women had an exciting altercation and would have finished it at a Queensbury, but access could not be had to the boxing glove corner.

The inevitable woman with the baby carriage was there. Not for the world would she leave tootsy-tootsy at home, even on an occasion like this. Besides, the carriage was a handy means of conveying the bargains home. The woman with the five-dollar bill, who wanted to make a five cent purchase, was there. A distracted clerk gave her the marble countenance, and the woman went out and bought some things she actually needed—just out of revenge. Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned—at a five and ten cent sale.

The procession of bargain hunters, homeward bound, furnished unending amusement for the uncharitable men-folks along Main street. By common consent they awarded the prizes to the woman who carried 17 packages and still managed to hold her dress above the muddy pavement. Somewhere back in her career she must have trained for this occasion by carrying triplets around in her arms in the small hours of the night.

The trolley cars reaped a rich harvest out of the occasion, but pity the poor conductors whose slumbers that night were hardly more than a confused vision of hasocks, stowpans, baskets and dishes.

The new Woolworth store was much admired by those who had an opportunity to inspect anything but bargains. The management is admirable, the stock is probably unsurpassed by that of any other 5 and 10 cent store in the state, and the location is very near the business center of the city. The store was open for inspection Friday afternoon and evening, and hundreds took advantage of the opportunity. Foreseeing that Saturday's crush would endanger the plate glass windows alongside the entrance, the proprietors had carpenters working until midnight boarding up the lower half. The wisdom of that precaution was very manifest the next day. Feeling his own inability to cope with a description of the day's proceedings the writer has drafted the services of a local poet, whose verses on previous occasions are conceded to have admirably met the requirement. This is how he describes Saturday's turmoil on Rockland's Main street:

Charge of the Bargain Brigade

(With apologies to Alfred.)
Half a league, half a league,
Half a league onward,
Down the ten cent store,
Sweeping the twelve hundred,
"Forward the bargain bunch,
Don't mind a jab or punch,
Be sure you've got your lunch!"
Upon the twelve hundred,
Charged the twelve hundred.

Forgotten Rummage Sale,
Picture shows fade and pale,
Dry goods stores weep and wail,
Hos storm and thunder;
While from each nearby town,
City streets, up and down,
Basket hat, hobbie gown,
Come the twelve hundred.

Forward, ye women brave,
Grab for the things you crave,
Don't mind how you behave,
Friendship's ties sundered;
Yours but to push and jam,
Yours but to buff and slam,
Yours but to buff and slam,
On the defensive stores

Hasocks to right of them,
Dishpans to left of them,
Baskets in front of them,
Tempted and beckoned,
Mountains of shining ware
Lay on the counting up,
Grab till the boards are bare—
Got every salesman there,
More than they reckoned.

Flashed every angry eye,
Flashed as they tried to buy
Everything far and high—
All the men wondered,
Talk of a football game,
Tried fight for coin or fame,
These things are really tame
To the deeds that were done
Of the twelve hundred.

Pushing and crowding they,
Fighting triumphant way,
All through the live-long day,
Snatching and tearing;
Sweeping their arms and bare,
Torn dress, dabbled hair,
Then they went out from there,
All laurels bearing.

When can their glory fade?
Oh, the wild charge they made—
All the town wondered,
Not the largest band,
Honour their women proud,
Noble twelve hundred.

Camden High Suddenly Becomes Important Factor in Football.—Other Notes of the Sporting Arena.

Rockland High went to Camden with no less than four substitutes Saturday afternoon and was defeated with a decisiveness not half indicated by the score of 5 to 0. There were but few moments during the four periods that the home team did not show its superiority, and the crowd was immensely pleased thereby. Whether Camden would have been able to score a similar victory against Rockland's regular team is a question that cannot readily be answered, but in view of the showings made by the Camden eleven in the last two periods of last Thursday's game on the Broadway ground, it is safe to say that Rockland's "varsity" has not much on the Camden combination.

The one touchdown in Saturday's game was made by Frye, who secured the ball on a fumble. He was immediately tackled by two Rockland players, but broke away from them for a run of at least 25 yards, and dropped the ball behind Rockland's goal. The attempt to kick a goal was a failure, the ball swerving just a little to one side of the goal post.

While Camden was never quite able to make another touchdown the ball was generally to be found in Rockland's territory and it required all of Captain Kallach's resourcefulness to keep it away from the danger line.

Camden has a speedy backfield, and there's something doing when McCobb and Tewksbury cut loose. Both made long gains Saturday, while the Camden line repeatedly broke up Rockland's play.

Lamb's place at quarter was taken by Fuller, who ran the team in fine style, with the exception, perhaps, of too often essaying the forward pass. Campbell and Kallach made frequent gains, the former was so thoroughly exhausted in the last half that most of the work devolved upon Kallach.

Camden's new-found importance on the gridiron reflects credit not only upon excellent material, but upon the skilled coaching the team has had from William Flint of Rockland.

A BIG COMPRESSOR.
An immense compressor has just been erected for the Mt. Waldo Granite works. It is one of the largest in the state and will be used to furnish compressed air for the cutting plant at the wharf and quarrying purposes on Mt. Waldo, the air being forced about two miles through a six inch pipe to the quarry. The compressor, with ten large derricks, its capacity varying from 30 to 50 tons each, its miles of railroad and inexhaustible supply of gray granite building stone, makes the Mount Waldo Granite Works one of the best equipped plants in the United States.

During that time, no telling how many gallons of the various kinds of liniments and oils I have used and with but little relief. Recently, I was confined to my bed helpless. I tried Sloan's Liniment and used it with such satisfactory results that I sent for two large bottles, and I have up to this time used about half a 50 cent bottle with splendid success."—JAMES HYDE, Beebe, White County, Ark.

A large room has been fitted up at the rear of Haskell's fruit and confectionery store and equipped with a pool table, on which the "sharps" are already doing great stunts.

Steamer James T. Morse has been withdrawn from the Bar Harbor route and is now in winter quarters at Camden. Steamer Boothbay will run to the millionaires' retreat until next spring and the Catherine will do the Boothbay's work on the Bluehill line.

W. B. Foster, formerly in the newspaper business in Thomaston, and well known in this city, has become manager of the firm of H. B. Loud & Co., which publishes the Rockland (Mass.) Independent and conducts a large job printing establishment. Mr. Foster's many friends wish him success in his new and responsible position.

The firm of Smith & Munro has dissolved partnership. Mr. Munro becoming sole proprietor of the White Front Lunch room near Rockland Theatre. He has also bought Mr. Smith's interest in the block occupied by the lunch room. Mr. Munro will finish the upper story of the new building into an office for rental purposes.

Some miscreants, who will never have sufficient courage to go to war have been amusing themselves for some time past in disturbing the citizens by the use of firecrackers. Several of these are now being put in and no doubt has as a place of amusement, everything beaten between Portland and Frisco.

I have been working on a ranch here most of the summer, getting a little practical experience before going upon a place of my own which I expect to have next spring. I shall go back to college in February and finish my course in horticulture which I started at the U. of M. They have been very busy here with the football this fall, but its business with me now not play.

Sorry to read that the young men now in R. H. S. did not have better success at football. We watched with much interest the results of the world's series. Most of the fans here are well read on the subject. We are having some fine ball playing in the Pacific Coast League. Portland is now in the lead over the small margin over Oakland.

Our fruit is fine this season and there is a large demand for it. Our cornucopia the other day sold for $10 a box in London. I had the pleasure of viewing this fruit when it was being packed for export. We are growing. The fellow who was captain of our ball team has had the honor of packing all this fruit, besides holding the valley record for the number of boxes packed in a day. So much for the country for you well know that we are growing.

The many changes that have taken place in Rockland I imagine will make me think I am in another town when I come back. Your new industries are certainly a great help to the town and no doubt will aid the business men a great deal.

An Incident That Ended the Conversation at the Barber's.

"You are very bald, sir," said the barber to little Blinks as the latter took up his position in the chair.

"What's that you say?" asked Blinks pleasantly.

"I say you are very bald, sir," repeated the barber.

"Who is?" asked Blinks.

"You, sir," said the barber.

"What paper did you see that in?" demanded Blinks.

"What's that, sir?" asked the barber.

"What newspaper?" repeated Blinks.

"I read all the papers, but I didn't see any reference to this. Was it in one of the early editions of the evening papers?"

"Was what, sir?" queried the puzzled barber.

"This thing you were just telling me," said Blinks.

"Why, I don't remember telling you," began the barber.

"About my being bald, you know," said Blinks.

"You said I was very bald, didn't you?"

"Yes," said the barber, "but I didn't mention the newspapers, sir. Why should I be in the newspapers, sir?"

"Why, because it's news, isn't it?" said Blinks.

"I shouldn't say that, sir," said the barber.

"Well, if it isn't news, what in thunder did you tell me about it for?" demanded Blinks.

"I supposed you had read about it in one of the papers and had reached the conclusion that I didn't know it. If you find a mole under my left ear while shaving me, break it to me gently, please, and you may omit all mention of the fact that my beard is getting gray. I am trying to stave off a realization of the—"

EATON LIKES OREGON

Rockland Boy Going to Start a Fruit Ranch After Finishing His College Course.

Medford, Oregon, Oct. 28, 1910.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—We are having splendid weather and have had for the past two weeks, nice and warm, plenty of sunshine with hardly a cloud in the sky. We had a three days rain to end our beautiful summer with and it certainly did seem good to see rain again after not having seen it for more than two months. I like here better than ever and have no thought of coming back east to live again for a while anyway. Those cold winds and snow storms have no charm for me side of our warm rains and pleasant weather mixture.

This place is certainly a busy one. Our population, latest census, is over 9000. Last year when I came here I can remember just how the town looked in comparison of what it is today. It hardly seems possible that such a change could take place in so short a time. At present we have under way two four-story brick blocks, two new hotels, and a three-story bank building. Our $20,000 natatorium has been completed and is a fine building. It contains a large dance hall, banquet rooms, swimming pool, skating rink, picture show, bowling alleys and pool hall. Several other attractions are being put in and no doubt has as a place of amusement, everything beaten between Portland and Frisco.

I have been working on a ranch here most of the summer, getting a little practical experience before going upon a place of my own which I expect to have next spring. ### PREFER DELAWARE COURSE

Southern Shipbuilders Want to Try Warships There Instead of on Rockland Course.—Bath Iron Works' Good Luck.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Bids for the construction of six torpedo boat destroyers for the United States Navy were opened at the Navy department Tuesday.

Acting Secretary Winthrop notified the three bidders who recently asked him to change the specifications so as to permit the trial of the vessels to be held over the Lewes, Del., course instead of the Rockland, Maine, course, that they might submit alternate bids to cover trials over both courses.

The shipbuilders interested claim it would cost $10,000 more per vessel to hold the trials over the Rockland course owing to its great distance from the respective yards at Newport News, Philadelphia and Camden. The Fore River yard prefers the Rockland course.

The contract for building two new torpedo boat destroyers was awarded to the Bath Iron Works.

How much the Southern builders want to try their ships on the Delaware course is shown by the fact that the Newport News Co. offer to deduct $4500 from the contract price if the trials can take place at Lewes, Del. The Cramps offer to deduct $4800 and the New York Shipbuilding Co. agrees to deduct $7000. That's the kind of a proposition the Rockland course is up against.

When Linen is Translucent.

The whiteness and opacity of dry linen, as of writing paper, are due mainly to the fact of repeated reflections at the surface, so that the light is wasted in these reverberations before it can reach to any depth. The body of linen is a network of transparent fibers, not in optical contact, which intercept the light by repeatedly reflecting it.

Now, if the interstices of these fibers are filled by a body of the same refractive index as the fibers themselves the reflection of the surface is destroyed and the linen is rendered more transparent. Water does this; hence linen when wet is darker, but more translucent. Just as is the oiled paper used for tracings by architects and engineers. The same holds good with ordinary glass and ground glass, the repeated reflections of the latter making it far less transparent. To a similar cause are due the whiteness and opacity of snow, of salt and of pulverized glass.

An Entertaining Catbird.

Nothing escapes the eye of our pet catbird, for he is curiosity personified. He wants to know the why and wherefore of everything that is a little strange and does not rest until he has found out. When let out in a room he will carefully examine every nook and corner. He is an inveterate joker and delights to play jokes on his fellow prisoners, while his sense of humor is almost human at times. The pincushion is a constant wonder and delight to him. He flies to it as soon as let out of his cage and either pulls the cushion as far as possible. If he pulls them out, he hops to the edge of the table and drops them on the floor, flinging his tail and uttering a note of great satisfaction when they strike the floor.—Suburban Life.

How He Felt.

He was an Englishman of the ultra sort and recently arrived, but he was striving strenuously to catch up with American idioms and New York slang. He had made some progress. He loomed up in the breakfast room of his hotel the other morning after a too convivial evening and encountered one of his companions.

"How do you feel, old chap?" asked the latter.

"Feel?" repeated the Englishman. "Feel? Oh, yes, I see what you mean. I feel like a 30 cent piece."

"I like what?"

"Like one and six, as you chaps say here. No! Hold on, there! I mean 30 cents, you know; feel like 30 cents. Yes."—New York Globe.

Convenient.

"Providence," said the deacon, "sho' do look after de cullud race."

"How come?" demanded Brother Dickey.

"Well, hit's disaway: De nigger baby, ez dey say, walk too soon."

"Sho do?" asserted Brother Dickey.

"Dat makes him bowlegged."

"Now you talkin'?"

"An' bowlegs is de mos' convenient-est legs in de worl' for climbin' a tree w'en a possum's on de top limb!"—Exchange.
